Cherry Creek Reservoir is a prime place to camp year round. It's especially popular in the warmer months when boaters and fishermen are playing on the lake. Multi-use trails exist for bikers and hikers to trek around the lake and explore the tranquil wetlands environment.

RV campers can make use of 135 campsites at the park. There are both full hook-up and tent sites available year round, as well as 3 group campgrounds. Showers and laundry are among the handful of amenities available for overnight guests. Located in Aurora, Colorado's third largest city, Cherry Creek State Park provides fast access to the capital city's tourist attractions.

There's nothing as beautiful as waking up in the middle of natural wonders. This is what you get when you camp at Dakota Ridge RV Park. Located in the foothills of Golden, you are given a mixture of city and mountain life here. Some of the perks include good cell reception, hot tub and showers, along with proximity to casinos in Black Hawk and Central City.

This RV Park offers both pull-thru and back-in RV sites. Another advantage is they offer discounted weekly all-inclusive rates, on top of the usual daily rates. If booking during the holidays, a 3 day minimum stay is required. The all-inclusive rates include electricity, 1 RV and 1 vehicle, and up to 2 people 2 pets.
